Yatish Mishra
President, CTO, and Founder

Yatish Mishra has 17 years of technical management experience in the IT industry, including building and operating 12 data centers worldwide. Previously, he was vice president of information systems at Photronics, Inc., where he was responsible for all aspects of IS operations worldwide. His responsibilities included software development, network support, and strategic planning. Prior to Photronics, Mr. Mishra was vice president of engineering at Microlink Technologies, Inc. and has held various senior-level IT positions managing security, networking, systems, software development, business development, and customer support. Mr. Mishra holds a bachelor's degree in applied physics and physical electronics from the University of California, Davis. He has been quoted in a number of national trade publications including Computerworld, InfoWorld, Interactive Week, Disaster Recovery Journal, Contingency Planning & Management and InfoStor.